If you have looked at the latest issue of your favourite magazine or newspaper, you will find that they have a number of articles on different topics. Some of these are about men. But even for these, you will find that the majority of them are about women. If you have been watching television, you will have seen or heard discussions on what it is about men that makes them behave in certain ways. It is an interesting, if somewhat depressing, fact that, when men are portrayed, they are almost always portrayed as being the sex that is bad. This can be because it is a habit among the media, or for some other reason. Either way, it does not help men. The worst part about the way the media portrays men is that it tends to show them as beings who are incapable of having happy lives and families. This is because of the way they are typically treated. They are the ones who are forced to pay for their partners' alcohol and who have their mates cheated on by other women, while they themselves are prevented from doing anything about it. They are treated like doormats, and are generally spoken of as being the reason for the happiness of their families. The truth is that a man should never feel bad about himself because of what others say about him. To do so is to let what other people think control you. You are only human, and you have no control over what people say. You can only control your own reactions. Do not let what others think of you affect you. Instead, try to think of a way to improve yourself. It is not hard to do. Many years ago, 82157476af
